“ The smell of toasted bread takes me back to the 70's when Uncle and our family shared a rented house in Moanalua Valley, Honolulu, Hawaii. White toasted bread with butter was Uncle's breakfast before he left for work. At that time, he was working for a meat packing company where he endured the extreme cold working conditions until he moved to California where all his children grew up. Each time I visited Delano, I would also stop by for brief visits where he would always welcome me with warm hospitality, in the same quiet and great listening Uncle the way I remember him to be. I am glad that I had the opportunity to visit him for the last time last year as he remained hopeful to beat his cancer.

To Auntie Flor, Anna, Ronald, Elizabeth, Cindy and the rest of the family, I share your sadness as you remember Uncle in the countless memories you made together as a family.

Aloha to you all,

Loren and Marvin Lee

“ I recall Mr. Pajarillo as a very kind man with a smile. I met him through his eldest daughter Anna over 30 years ago when Anna and I were in high school.

He was very nice because he often let Anna use the family car to drive myself and our friends places, like to the library and dance practices for a Filipino club we were members of. He also was kind enough to allow the Filipino club members assemble a float for a homecoming parade in 1989. I'm very thankful for his kindness and our thoughts and prayers are with the family. May he rest in peace.

Love,

Marlene Quebral and family
